Normal

Normal[expr] converts expr to a normal expression, from a variety of special forms.

Normal[expr] converts a power series to a normal expression by truncating higher-order terms. When additional "data types" are introduced, Normal should be defined to convert them, when possible, to normal expressions. See page 434.